The poster features a central black square with a teal border. Inside the border are illustrations of various games: two dice (one white with black pips, one white with red pips), an hourglass with purple sand, a hand of cards including an 8 of diamonds, a teal card, an Ace of hearts, and a purple card, a board game with a red and white board and pieces, a stack of purple and teal chips, a stack of teal and purple chips, a die with numbers 14, 9, 16, 8, and 3, and three chess pieces (a king, a pawn, and a rook) in red and white.

TRIO on the GO!

A group of TRIO students had the opportunity to travel to Reno, Nevada during Spring break to delve into the profound impact of historical disparities marginalized groups face in higher education. During the break, students explored the historical context of systemic inequities in higher education and engaged with local communities, organizations, and institutions to witness firsthand the challenges marginalized groups face. Community partners included University of Reno- Nevada, Inter-Tribal Council of Nevada, Reno-Sparks Colony, Tribal Minds, and the Stewart Indian School.

Washington, DC Policy Seminar

Policy Seminar Highlights

Our Associate Director, Bri LeBreton joined with other Utah TRIO leaders at Policy Seminar in DC. The team went to Capitol Hill to promote TRIO programs with Utah legislatures. It was an exciting time spent lobbying and celebrating our students.
