On Wednesday, April 25, the TRIO-Student Support Services Program honored graduates from the summer/fall 2017 and spring 2018 at the University of Utah. In total, ninety nine TRIO-SSS students received degrees from the University of Utah, and thirteen participated in this celebration.

This time of year is a great time for reflection both from the programmatic and personal standpoint. Programmatically, it’s great to see students reach their goals and objectives as that’s an indication that someone, somewhere had a positive impact on these students. Personally, however, these moments carry so much weight. These celebrations highlight trials overcome, burdens carried, and families strengthened. The journey of education is not an easy one, and there are many distractions. Some take longer than others to finish, but the end goal is the same, an education to build the foundation, or reinforce an existing one, of one’s life.

Our office couldn’t be more proud of the culmination of your efforts. Please know that we will always be here to assist you in your journey. Need help with grad school, or employment prospects? We may not have the direct answers, but we’ll help you find them. Something in your personal life? We’ll lend a listening ear and, when requested, assist by seeking out our networks to help you in your journey.

Congratulations to all - and please stay in touch!

Sincerely,
The TRIO - Student Support Services Team
